The HDRC Annual Show was held in early July at Eastlands, near Plummers Plain. Prior to the show entries were slow in coming in, leaving the Show committee wondering if we would suffer this year from low entries. The lack of rain during the weeks running up to the show resulted in the ground being very hard and entries for showjumping classes were certainly low, despite the fact that Eastlands has a very good surface in the jumping arenas. On the actual day some of the morning classes were not well attended. The committee was surprised that the cob classes did not have many entries this year. This meant that there was time before the start of the later classes in the cob ring, but this time was very successfully utilised by our cob judge, Mr Simon Somers, who is a RIHS judge and good supporter of our show, giving those who entered a Masterclass in riding for cob showing classes. Lynn Russell, who had entered one of her young horses in this class, has offered a Masterclass to HDRC members at the start of the showing season next year, so this is something we may add to the member's events for next year if there is sufficient interest.

Having said that pre-show entries were down on previous years, on the day Ro and I were very busy with entries on the day and in the afternoon the classes in most rings had a greater level of entries with the show pick up momentum by lunchtime and there was a very healthy buzz of activity around the showground. We were disappointed to see that the dressage classes were not well attended, particularly by HDRC members although it was good to see a number of the prize winners in these classes were our own members – so very well done to those who entered and went home with rosettes and prize money.

Amongst the showing classes there were also HDRC winners, particularly in the riding club horse classes where many of our members were winners, so again many congratulations to them. We introduced a new class this year for retired racehorses and thoroughbreds and I am pleased to say that this class was very well attended.

The show of course cannot run without volunteers to set up the show before hand, to act as stewards and officials on the day and to help clear up after the event. We had a superb bunch of helpers this year and I would like to say a huge thanks to all those who helped out. It really made the show run smoothly and we were very grateful to you all. I would also like to say thank you to all on the show committee who work throughout the year to make the show a success. We start for the next year's show in August, first with a post-mortem on this year's show to see where improvements can be made and then throughout the winter months we have to turn our attention to affiliating with the Societies, finding judges and working on the classes and schedule for the coming year. It is a tremendous amount of work but I am pleased to say that the 2010 show was a financial success. I hope those who entered enjoyed themselves – I have had several emails from competitors indicating that they had a good time and will be back again next year. All that remains therefore is for the committee to start work on the 2011 show, the date of which is provisionally Saturday 2nd July.
